CONTRIBUTIONS

NUMBER 1

Editorial Bernal's Picasso	Jack Harris	1
Comment The useful arts	Tim Hunkin	8
Comment Biology and bafflegab: dark versus bright words in the human sciences	S. A. Barnett	15
Royal Society discussion Science, technology, and social responsibility	Wendy Barnaby	20
Theology and the sciences	John Habgood	24
Can the energy market protect the environment?	Ian Fells	29
Fibre composites: the weave of history	Anthony Kelly	34
Accessing nature's inorganic secrets	David E. Fenton	45
Egypt in Rome – an introductory essay. I: Isis, obelisks, and the Isaeum Campense	James Stevens Curl	53
Book reviews
'The governance of science'	Michael Gibbons	65
'Science without laws' and 'Pandora's hope: an essay on the reality of science studies'	John Ziman	67
'Has feminism changed science?'	S. A. Barnett	68
'Erasmus Darwin: a life of unequalled achievement'	Jonathan Smith	69
'Speaking for myself'	Frank P. Davidson	71
'Predictions: 30 great minds on the future'	Anthony R. Michaelis	73
'Journey beyond Selene: remarkable expeditions to the solar system's 63 moons'	Adrian Berry	74
'Mapping time: the calendar and its history'	Lee Loevinger	75
'Metals and the Royal Society'	Robert Cahn	77
'Carbon nanotubes and related structures – new materials for the twenty-first century'	Harry Kroto and Humberto Terrones	78

NUMBER 2

Editorial India's bomb and the democratic process	Jack Harris	81
Comment Depleted uranium	Douglas Holdstock	87
Comment A though style perspective on making decisions about technology	Gustav Östberg	90
Governing science before it governs us	Steve Fuller	95
Intergroup agression: multi-individual organisms and the survival instinct	N. C. Hughes-Jones	101
Secessions, interventions, and the case of Kosovo	Hugh Beach	109
Extraterrestrial biophysics	F. W. Taylor	119
Egypt in Rome – an introductory essay. II: The Villa Adriana and the beginnings of Egyptology	James Stevens Curl	123
Pisa goes critical	J. B. Burland	136
Risk assessment and structural integrity aspects of materials behaviour	F. M. Burdekin	141
Book reviews
'A brief history of the future', 'Virtual states', and Techgnosis'	Jim Burge	153
'Internet ethics'	Gordon Graham	155
'The innovation war'	Anthony R. Michaelis	156
'Achilles in the quantum universe. The definitive history of infinity'	Peter Trier	157
'Bohm–Biederman correspondence', Volume 1	F. David Peat	158
'Sensory exotica: a world beyond human experience'	Richard Gregory	160

'Ingenious pursuits – building the scientific revolution'	Alan Cook	160
'Count Rumford. The extraordinary life of a scientific genius'	Patricia Rothman	162

NUMBER 3

Editorial War and peace	Jack Harris	165
Comment Sir Vivian Fuchs – in appreciation	P. G. Law	170
Comment The future of molecular medicine	Jörg Klein	173
Drug delivery systems	S. S. Davis	175
The future could be too much fun	Susan Greenfield	184
Might a laboratory experiment destroy planet earth?	Francesco Calogero	191
The effect of the telegraph on law and order, war, diplomacy, and power politics	Laszlo Solymar	203
Monster soup: the microscope and Victorian fantasy	Ursula Seibold-Bultmann	211
The mighty cashew	Philip Blazdell	220
Shifts in the world science centre: space–time characteristics and disciplinary analysis	Liming Liang, Ye Feng, and Yishan Wu	227
Book reviews
'Science, technology and society in contemporary Japan'	Robert Cahn	233
'Defenders of the truth'	Steve Fuller	233
'Our cosmic future: humanity's fate in the universe'	Lee Loevinger	236
'Legal alchemy: the use and misuse of science in the law'	Lee Loevinger	239
'Art and the brain'	John Nash	243

NUMBER 4

Editorial The sixth extinction	Jack Harris	245
Comment Determining the line: mercy, justice, humility, and embryonic stem cells	Lee S. Rayfield	250
Essay review The scientist as a poet	George and Eva Klein	256
Cosmology, creation, and the force of history	J. D. North	261
The political contexts of calendars	Susan Drucker-Brown	267
Poverty as a cause of wars?	Morris Miller	273
Research on human subjects, exploitation, and global principles of ethics	John Harris	298
The HIV/AIDS pandemic: human rights, societal, and developmental issues	Kenneth Stuart	307
Book reviews
'Technological innovation as an evolutionary process'	Arnold Pacey	313
'Meaning in technology'	John Ziman	315
'Real science: what it is and what it means'	Mary Midgley	316
'Israel and the bomb'	Robert Cahn	318
'Pliny the Elder on science and technology'	Mary Beagon	319
'Gout: the patrician malady'	Wendy Barnaby	321
'Lucifer's legacy: the meaning of asymmetry'	Henning Genz	323